

This figure displays a 3D visualization of a 16x16x16 convolution kernel. The top surface represents the input feature map, and the bottom surface represents the output feature map. The color scale for both surfaces ranges from 0.000000 to 0.000000. The visualization is composed of many small cubes, each representing a single element in the 3D volume.